School Librarians: Those librarians who wish to visit the high school libraries in Fort Wayne must plan to do so before noon, Wednesday, October 21, as these libraries close at that time on account of the meeting of Indiana State Teachers' Association in Indianapolis.

Everybody: Be sure to get a convention certificate with your railway ticket in order to insure half-fare rates on return trip.

SUMMER SCHOOL 1925

The Public Library Commission Summer School for librarians and library assistants was held this summer in the Senate Chamber, State House, Indianapolis, June 16-August 1. Thirty-six students were registered. The commission felt that it was a great advantage in several respects in having the session in the Senate Chamber. It was possible for all the students to be seated in one room—very much better for both students and instructors. Also, this arrangement served to make the commission and the State Library collections more available but that of the Public Library a little less so.

The change of organization of the commission made some funds available which would otherwise not have been for Summer School use. These funds were used in having a number of extra lecturers, whose talks were of course contributory to the work in hand. The special lecturers were Miss Mary Eileen Ahern, William J. Hamilton, Joseph L. Wheeler, Miss Sarah Louise Mitchell, Christopher B. Coleman, Joy E. Morgan, Demarchus C. Brown, Orlando C. Davis, Mrs. Elizabeth Claypool Earl, Miss Margaret A. Wade, Miss Florence Bunting, John S. Cleavinger, Mrs. W. R. Davidson, Mrs. H. B. White, Miss Margaret Mann, James I. Wyer, Miss Georgie McAfee, M. S. Dudgen, Carl S. Milam, William P. Dearing, Mrs. Frank J. Sheehan and Charles N. Thompson.

Courses of lectures were given by Mrs. Carl Roden, Book Selection; Mrs. Eva Cloud Taylor, Administration; Miss Carrie E. Scott, Children's Work; Miss Mary E. Ensign, Binding; Miss Florence Jones, Vertical File Material; Miss Winnifred Wennerstrum, Cataloging and Classification; Miss Della Frances Northey, School Work and Library Law; Miss Hazel B. Warren, Reference; Miss Eunice D. Henley, Trade Bibliography, Shelf List, Loan, Order and Accession.

The effort was made thruout the whole course in every phase of the work to impress on the students the necessity for a broad general education as a background for all library work. Apparently with almost no exceptions they saw this and a goodly number of them are planning to go on to college or to complete an academic course already begun.

The spirit of this year's students was especially fine. They all had a splendid attitude toward their work.

—H. B. W.

TRAINING FOR SCHOOL LIBRARIANS

As an experiment, the Public Library Commission co-operated with Ball Teachers' College, Indiana State Normal School, Eastern Division, in instruction to teachers and school librarians in the essentials of library economy and administration. Miss Barcus Tichenor, librarian of the college, gave the course in Reference work and Miss Northey gave the courses in Book Selection, Classification and Cataloging and School Library Administration.

The course was open only to those who had had at least two years of normal school or college work. All classes met six days per week for five weeks. Regular credit was given. There were eight students, four of whom were college graduates. All are now holding school library positions and two have had their salaries raised because they took this work.

A course for teachers in the use of books was made possible at Purdue University summer school through the co-operation of their library with the Public Library Commission. The classes met every day for eight weeks. Mr. Hepburn, librarian of Purdue University; Miss Mabbett, assistant librarian, and Miss Northey were responsible for the instruction. Reference and Book Selection for schools were the subjects stressed.

"The power of a man increases steadily by continuance in one direction. He becomes acquainted with the resistances, and with his own tools; increases his skill and strength and learns the favorable moments and favorable accidents. He is his own apprentice, and more time gives a great addition of power, just as a falling body acquires momentum with every foot of the fall."—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Study books with "a true desire to be taught by them, and to enter into their thoughts. To enter into theirs, observe; not to find your own expressed by them. If the person who wrote the book is not wiser than you, you need not read it; if he be, he will think differently from you in many respects.

"Very ready we are to say of a book, 'How good that is—that's exactly what I think!' But the right feeling is, 'How strange that is! I never thought of that before, and yet I see it is true; or if I do not now, I hope I shall, some day.' But whether thus submissively or not, at least be sure that you go to the author to get his meaning, not to find yours. Judge it afterwards, if you think yourself qualified to do so; but ascertain it first."—John Ruskin.

"* * * a few immortal compositions, small in size, yet compassing what measureless values of reminiscence, contemporary portraiture, manners, idioms and beliefs, with deepest inference, hint and thought, to tie and touch forever the old, new body, and the old, new soul! These! and still these! bearing the freight so dear—dearer than pride—dearer than love. All the best experience of humanity, folded, saved, freighted to us here. Some of these tiny ships we call Old and New Testament, Homer, Eschylus, Plato, Juvenal, etc. Precious minims! I think, if we were forced to choose, rather than have you, and the likes of you, and what belongs to, and has grown of you, blotted out and gone, we could better afford, appalling as that would be, to lose all actual ships, this day fastened by wharf, or floating on wave, and see them, with all their cargoes, scuttled and sent to the bottom."—Walt Whitman.

"It has always seemed to me that the office of an institution such as the library is as much to direct and restrain public taste as it is to supply what is demanded."—Paul Elmer More, Editor of the Nation.

CONTRIBUTED AND SELECTED ARTICLES

DO YOU DO THESE THINGS?

Check new books with bill.

Write date of bill, name of firm from whom it was bought, and cost, on the page following the title page.

Open the book scientifically: i. e., lay it on a flat surface and taking a few pages at the back, then at the front, alternately, press them down gently until the middle of the book is reached. The book will wear better if opened this way first.

Cut the pages.

Paste in the book pocket.

Enter in the accession book and write the accession number on the page following the title page, center of page, one and a half inches from the bottom, unless the printing interferes.

Classify the book, if non-fiction, and write the classification number on the page following the title page.

Fill out the book card and the book pocket, putting the classification in the upper lefthand corner and the accession number in the upper righthand corner; writing the author's surname on the line below these numbers and the title on the line below that.

If not fiction, write the class number on the back of the book. If juvenile, put J or j and classification number on the back of the book.

Make shelf list card and catalog cards, or author and title card. Put the book on the shelf and file card.

These are necessary steps in every library—although the detailed directions may differ. The important thing is to do all this—and to do it the same way every time.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS IN INDIANA LIBRARIES

INTRODUCTION

The following is the result of the investigations of the committee appointed by the Indiana Library Association to ascertain the subjects and scope of special collections in Indiana libraries, in order that librarians might have the information at hand for use in reference work requiring a large collection or expert knowledge.

It was at first intended to include private collections and those on local history but as the list developed it seemed best, in general, not to do so. Some other collections, not now available for use, have also not been included. If the list proves to be as useful as is hoped, a revision or supplement can easily be made.

Much that is listed is not important as compared with material in libraries outside the state but some is evidently exceedingly valuable and deserves a longer treatment than can be given here.

The committee wishes to thank the librarians for their prompt and full replies to questions. Most of them are willing to lend material not needed in their own communities or not too valuable for circulation.

FLORENCE VENN, Chairman.

M. WINIFRED KNAPP.

HARLOW LINDLEY.

AGRICULTURE

The Purdue University Library aims at completeness in its files of the publications of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and of the various State Agricultural Experiment Stations. It also has extensive collections of state agricultural and horticultural boards and societies, official publications of foreign countries, of agricultural periodicals, and reference books and text books relating to all phases of agriculture.

AMERICANA

The State Library has about 5,500 volumes exclusive of South and Central America and Indiana. This includes many rare volumes in early travel and local history.

The Emeline Fairbanks Library, Terre Haute, has a good collection of about 400 volumes, dealing largely with the history of the Mississippi Valley. It includes a large part of the papers printed in Terre Haute from the first volume down.

ART

The John Herron Art Institute, Indianapolis, has lantern slides covering architecture, painting and sculpture. It has also mounted pictures for designing and poster work and on cathedrals, sculpture and Indiana artists, together with clippings on art subjects, prints, etchings, lithographs and books. Borrowing from the state is welcomed except for books. These are not loaned but extracts are made.

The Art Department of Indiana University has an extensive collection of photographs on architecture, also a collection on sculpture and painting; a set of fine plates made from photographs of Greek vases; a small collection of prints including etchings, engravings, wood-cuts, lithographs, etc.; many slides on architecture, sculpture, painting and engraving. In its library, architecture is especially emphasized, including many fine and some rare books (largely in French).

The Indianapolis Public Library has an exceptionally fine collection of expensive and rare art reference books, and is constantly adding to its collection of circulating books which may be borrowed by other libraries in the state. Both the Art Department and the School Libraries Division are building up an extensive file of colored and black and white prints and reproductions.

The State Library has about 1,250 color reproductions of old masters and living artists. It is also collecting pictures of cathedrals, sculpture and costume.

BAPTIST CHURCH HISTORY

Franklin College has excellent files of Indiana association minutes including some very early ones.

BIBLES

The Old Cathedral Library at Vincennes has about sixty editions dating from 1523, besides about fifty-two of the New Testament dating from 1527.

BOTANY

Notre Dame University has the Edward Lee Green Botanical Library and Herbarium, presented by the late Edward Lee Green, formerly of the Smithsonian Institution and later a professor in the University of Notre Dame. The books are shelved in a room specially prepared for them in the University Library. There are many rare and out of print volumes. With the book collection will be found an Herbarium of 100,000 specimens fully mounted and systematically arranged. By the terms of the gift the collection is available only to students doing advanced work in botany. Four thousand volumes in the collection.

Notre Dame also has the Julius Arthur Nieuwland Botanical Library. This collection contains about 3,000 volumes and was deposited in the University Library in 1924 by Dr. J. A. Nieuwland, C. S. C., formerly Professor of Botany. It supplements the Green Library in many ways bringing certain sections up to date. As with the Green Library there are many rare and out of print volumes. For research.

SEE ALSO SCIENCE.

BUILDING

The Maas-Neimeyer Lumber Company, Indianapolis, has about 200 books on architecture, wood-work, interior decoration, ornament, wood-finishing, etc.

BUSINESS

The Business Branch of the Indianapolis Public Library has about 4,448 books, 13,366 pamphlets, 14,230 clippings and 21,620 pictures relating to business and economics.

CATHOLIC HISTORY AND RELIGION

St. Meinrad's Abbey, St. Meinrad, in its library includes some 500 volumes of early Catholic theology and philosophy including the Acta Sanctorum and Migne's "Church Fathers."

The Old Cathedral Library at Vincennes has a most interesting collection of about 15,000 books, over half of which were printed before the close of the 18th century. Most of them are on ecclesiastical subjects, including religious biography. Four date from before the discovery of America. One is a manuscript of the year 1005. Many languages are represented in the library, including Aramaic, Chaldaic and Chinese.

CHEMISTRY

Eli Lilly and Company, Indianapolis, maintains a special library of chemical and medical works, of about 5,000 volumes, including besides books, periodicals and monographs in many languages. This library also has good material on Pharmacy and Botany.

The Technical Department of the Indianapolis Public Library is stronger in industrial chemistry than any other single field, and is now subscribing to most of the well-known journals of pure and applied chemistry.

SEE ALSO SCIENCE.

CIVIL WAR

The State Library has a collection on the Civil War given by John H. Holliday. It contains about 1,500 volumes and 350 pamphlets on slavery, history of the war, regimental histories, personal reminiscences and biography of eminent persons connected with the period. This is in addition to the Civil War section already belonging to the State Library, which has itself received special emphasis.

CLASSICS

Indiana University has about 8,360 volumes including a practically complete collection of Greek and Latin authors (texts and important commentaries). There are extensive collections on Greek and Roman inscriptions and the coins of ancient Greece and Rome. Also some photographic reproductions of complete manuscripts; a fair collection of works on paleography; standard miscellaneous collections of reproductions of sample pages of MSS; and complete sets of a number of classical periodicals and reports of learned societies.

DANTE

Notre Dame University has a notable Dante Library collected by the late Dr. J. A. Zahm, C. S. C. It numbers about 2,800 volumes and contains works in 40 different languages. The collection is rich in incunabula and post-incunabula editions. A choice collection of medallions, bronzes, marbles and photographs goes with the library. A small endowment makes possible the addition of rare and new material. The Dante Library holds third or fourth place among the important Dante collections in the United States.

Indiana University has recently added a representative and valuable collection of Dante, consisting of about 350 volumes.

The State Normal School, Terre Haute, has Dante books to the number of 175.

DRAMA

Indiana University has been buying largely in the field of contemporary drama, and now has a collection probably superior to any other in the state.

Butler College, Indianapolis, has the Tarkington-Baker collection, which contains material on the drama, and texts of plays of various countries.

The Indianapolis Public Library has a special drama alcove for the use of the various dramatic organizations in the city. The collection is strong in modern plays and in books about the drama and theater.

EDUCATION

The Indiana State Normal School, Terre Haute, specializes in Education. It has approximately 10,000 volumes specifically classed as such in the 370's and several thousand more scattered through the collection, besides pamphlets.

The Teachers' Special Library, a branch of the Indianapolis Public Library, has in education 6,193 books, 10,051 pamphlets, 1,508 slides and 1,155 Victrola records.

Besides a good general collection of books on education, Indiana University has in its Extension Division over 1,000 reels of educational films; over 20,000 lantern slides, and many picture exhibits, posters and charts on practically all phases of school and community work. This material may be borrowed by schools and civic organizations in Indiana and neighboring states at nominal rates. Write the Extension Division, Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana, for complete catalogs of material and rules for borrowing.

EIGHTEENTH CENTURY

Indiana University has about 950 works covering the period from the last third of the seventeenth century to the first third of the nineteenth. The greater proportion belongs to the first third of the eighteenth. It is mainly a collection of political pamphlets (many of them by Defoe) and religious tracts, but includes also current editions of poetry, plays, periodicals, pseudo-scientific treatises, etc. A valuable collection, which contains some very rare items.

GOOD EDITIONS OF BOOKS SUGGESTED FOR HOME READING IN BOBBS-MERRILL READERS

- Addams, Jane. Twenty years at Hull House. Macm. 48c (Macmillan's pocket Amer. and Eng. classics)
- Aesop. Fables, a version for young readers, by J. H. Stickney. Ginn. 60c
———. Macm. $1.75
Selected, told anew and their history traced by Joseph Jacobs; done into pictures by Richard Highway. The best edition for the teacher's use and for higher grades, also desirable as a standard by which other versions may be tested.
- Alcott. Jack and Jill. Little. $1.75
———. Little women, or, Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy. Little. $1.50
New ed. in splendid make-up, having clear type, good paper and strong binding. 8 illus. in color by J. W. Smith.
- . Little. $1.75 (Beacon Booksheds.)
- . Under the lilacs. Little. $1.75
- Alden. Why the chimes rang, and other stories. Bobbs. $1.75
Christmas fairy tale with a moral. Popular for reading and for dramatization. Other stories: The knights of the silver shield—The boy who discovered the spring—The brook in the king's garden—The hunt for the beautiful—The boy who went out of the world—The palace made by music—The forest full of friends—The boy of smiles—The castle under the sea—In the great walled country.

Aluminum Cooking Utensil Co. New Kensington, Pa. Free

From the mine to the modern kitchen; the story of "Wear-ever" aluminum cooking utensils.

Amicis, Edmondo de. Heart, a school boy's journal. Crowell. $1.75

Trans. from the Italian by I. F. Haggood. Make-up of this new edition, the good print, paper and wide margins recommend it. The colored plates add little to the merit of the book.

Andersen. Fairy tales. Rand. $2.00. Illus. by Winter. (Windermere series)

_____. Jacobs. $1.50 (Washington Square classics)

_____. McKay. $1.50
(Golden books for children.)

_____. Ginn. First series 60c, second series 64c. Ed. by Stickney

_____. Macm. $1.75. Ed. by Hackett and Tokvig, illus. by Erick Page. (Children's classics)

_____. Stories from Hans Andersen. Doran. $3.50. Illus. by Edmund Dulac
_____. Stories. Houghton. 56c. (River-side literature series)

A prime advantage in an early acquaintance with Andersen springs from the stimulus which his quaint fancy gives to the budding imagination of childhood. It may be said without exaggeration that Andersen truly represents creative childhood in literature. The rest of this fine preface will appeal to teachers. Nineteen of the best stories are given. This is probably the best inexpensive edition in one volume, but it has no illustrations. Many illustrators have given their talents to the picturing of these tales, and a public library should send to schools several fine editions. Oregon.

Arabian nights. Arabian nights. Macm. $1.75

Tales of wonder and magnificence, selected and edited by Padraic Colum. (Children's classics.) Illus. by Eric Pape.

_____. Doran. $3.50

Stories from the Arabian nights, retold by Laurence Housman; illus. by Edmund Dulac.

_____. Jacobs. $1.25. (Washington Square classics)

_____. Rand. $2.00. Illus. by Winter. (Windermere series)

_____. Arabian nights entertainments. Putnam. $2.50

Fairy tales from the Arabian nights; ed. by Dixon.

_____. Arabian nights. Ginn. 68c

Stories from the Thousand and one nights; told for young people by M. A. L. Lane. Twenty of the best-known stories somewhat shortened for young readers. It is essential that editions for children be carefully edited. Oregon.

Ashjornsen, P. C. East o' the sun and west o' the moon. Doran. $3.00

(G. W. Dasent; illus. by K. Nielson, 1922.) Welcome reprint of this beautiful book, same text and illus. on pages somewhat smaller than those of the previous edition which has resulted in narrower margins.

Austen, Jane. Sense and sensibility. Jacobs. $2.25. (Rittenhouse classics.) 12 colored illus. by C. E. and H. M. Brock

Baker. Children's first book of poetry. Amer. Bk. 60c

Verses from classic and modern poets make up these anthologies. Large clear print. Well graded series. Oregon.

Baker. Children's second book of poetry. Amer. Bk. 60c

_____. Shasta of the wolves. Dodd. $2.00

Baldwin. Fifty famous stories retold. Amer. Bk. 56c. (Eclectic readings)

The time-honored stories, some true and some legendary, which relate romantic episodes in the lives of famous heroes. Partial contents: King Alfred and the cakes—King Canute on the sea-shore—The Black Douglas—Androclus and the lion—Horatius at the bridge—The story of William Tell—Cornelia's jewels—Grace Darling—Sir Humphrey Gilbert—Sir Philip Sidney.

_____. Four great Americans. Amer. Bk. 64c. Washington, Franklin, Webster, Lincoln

Bennett, John. Master Skylark. Century. $2.00

_____. Century. $3.50

Holiday edition well bound and printed. 8 illus. in color by Henry Pitz, nice end papers, chapter headings and tail pieces in black and white.

- Bible. Ethical readings from the Bible. Scribner. 56c. By H. L. Keller and L. H. Wild Supplementary readings based on the text of the American Revised Version. Passages from the Bible "which interpret themselves and are the common ground upon which people of all phases of religious faith rest for their ethical ideals."
- Chisholm. Old Testament stories, selected for the children. Dutton. $1.00
(Told to the children ser.) Stories of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph and Moses. In scripture language with the parts uninteresting to children omitted and connection made in the compiler's own language, briefly and without a break in the style. The Old Testament style is not modernized. A. L. A.

(Home and school library.) Abridged edition of part one for the use of schools.
- Burnett. Little Lord Fauntleroy. Scribner. $1.25
An engaging boy, born in America in poverty, is the grandson and heir of an English earl. While the story is neither original nor probable, the circumstances are prettily told. A. L. A.
- Carroll. Alice's adventures in Wonderland and through the looking glass (Washington Sq. classics). Jacobs. $1.50
———. Macm. $1.75. Illus. by John Tenniel (Children's classics)
- . Macm. $1.75. The sequel bound in with the original classic
- . Rand. $2.00. Illus. by Winter. (Windermere series)
- . Alice in Wonderland. Ed. by Clifton Johnson. Amer. Bk. 72c. Illus. by Tenniel
A new genre of fairy tales which draws on modern science and all sorts of modern ideas for its materials and finds its most characteristic expression in droll irrelevance and the fantastic distortion of familiar things. Though written for children, the wit, the fanciful humor, and the subtlety of many of its comic undermeanings, can be appreciated fully only by educated adults. Baker.
- Carryl. Admiral's caravan. Houghton. $2.50

- _____. Davy and the goblin. Houghton. $2.50
- Carter. Cat stories; retold from St. Nicholas. Century. $1.25

- Cervantes. Saavedra Miguel de Don Quixote. Dodd. $2.50
- Retold by Judge Parry; illus. by Walter Crane. Treats of the pleasant manner of the knight-errant of that famous gentleman, Don Quixote, of the dreadful and never-to-be-imagined adventures and strange enchantments which befell this valorous and witty knight-errant. Pittsburgh.
- An attractive edition for older boys and girls. Illustrations are especially noteworthy. Follows text of one of the best English translations.
- _____. Harper. $2.50. Ed. by W. D. Howells
- Abridged ed. with notes, trans. and ed. by Howells. Make-up good, type clear and size not inconveniently large. Contains frontispiece etching of Don Quixote by Wm. Nicholson and an introd. by Howell's daughter. Good library edition.
- Chapman. Our winter birds. Appleton. 80c
- Church. Iliad for boys and girls. Macm. $1.75
- Retold by Church. Illus. after Flaxman. (Children's classics.)
- Church. Odyssey for boys and girls, told from Homer. Macm. $1.75
- Adaptation of the story of the wanderings of Ulysses, more attractive than Church's earlier work. Illus. in color and beautifully printed.
- Clemens. Adventures of Huckleberry Finn. Harper. $2.50. (Tom Sawyer's comrade) by Mark Twain. Illus.
- _____. Innocents abroad. Harper. $3.50. (Mississippi ed.)

- Harris. Uncle Remus, his songs and his sayings. Appleton. $2.00
Humorous negro folk-lore stories, in dialect. Children may not read this on account of the dialect, but the teacher will enjoy reading it aloud and can make good use of the tales in story telling. Brer Rabbit and Brer Fox are characters of as classic worth as any that figure in Greek and Norse mythology. Any child who misses these negro folk-tales as Mr. Harris tells them, has suffered a positive loss, which can never be made up. The humor has a quality and freshness all its own. Lyman.
- Harris. Uncle Remus returns. Houghton. $1.90
- Haskell, H. E. Katrinka: the story of a Russian child. Dutton. $2.00. (Little schoolmate ser.)
Interesting story of children of exiled parents and of how the heroine became a dancer. Full of information very well worked into the story. Oregon.

Major. Bears of Blue River

Malory, Sir Thomas. King Arthur and his knights; comp. and arr. by Sir James Knowles. Harper. $1.75

New edition of an old book, which the compiler says is "little more than an abridgement of the author's version . . . as printed by Caxton . . . with a few additions from Geoffrey of Monmouth and other sources . . . and an endeavor to arrange the many tales into a more or less consecutive story." It is an interesting version with illus. and decorations in black and white by Louis Rhead and a frontispiece in color by Frank Schoonover.

Marshall. Island story; a child's history of England, with pictures by A. S. Forrest. 31 full page illus. in color. Stokes. $5.00

Mathews, Shailer. French revolution, 1793. Longmans. $2.00

This rev. and enl. ed. has added a section on the Napoleonic period. Less important changes are a rearrangement of material on the pre-revolutionary period, laying greater stress on the economic forces which helped bring about the Revolution, a revision of the section on the Committee of public safety and a few minor modifications made in the light of recent findings.

NOTES FROM AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION HEADQUARTERS

It pays to keep in touch with activities in the profession. Membership in the American Library Association will help. Is your library a member? Is the librarian a member?

The John Newberry Medal. Each year the children's librarians of the country decide the winner of the John Newberry Medal and presentation is made at the annual conference. The award is given only to citizens or residents of the United States in order to encourage creative work written for children. The medal is the gift of Frederic G. Melcher now of New York, formerly of Indianapolis, and was formally adopted by the executive board of the American Library Association three years ago. Hendrick Van Loon's "Story of Mankind," received the first award in 1922. In 1923, Hugh Lofting, author of Doctor Doodle, won the honor and in 1924 the medal was awarded to Charles Boardman Hawes for his tale of adventure "The dark frigate." Since Mr. Hawes had died during the year, Mrs. Hawes was present to accept the honor. The honor was given to Charles J. Finger this year for his "Tales from Silver Lands." In accepting the medal Mr. Finger said: "Experience with all kinds of people, savage and civilized, leads me to believe that the chief thing to be achieved by the story teller is a sense of reality; without that it is not possible to interest boys and girls. A story teller who tries to talk either up or down to children will fail. The juvenile mind is active, alert, critical and everything set before it is subject to swift, critical analysis. Lacking sincerity the story will be rejected."

The Association of French Librarians have petitioned the American Library Association for continuance of the Paris Library School. Present appropriations (made by the American committee for work in Devastated France) will carry it through only one more year. This year was the third summer session. Twenty students were enrolled, many holding higher degrees and a number of them speaking several languages. Seven nationalities besides France are represented. The valuable collection of lantern slides illustrating American libraries and library publicity which were donated to the School by the Keystone View Company and the poster exhibit given by the A. L. A. lending section are helping to meet the constant demand for illustrative material.

One hundred forty libraries are co-operating in the study of intelligence ratings of librarians being carried on by the committee on the Classification of Library Personnel Administration.

The Board of Education for Librarianship of the A. L. A. has devoted a large share of its first year's work to the study of library schools. Unlike many other professional schools, there has been no opposition on the part of the library schools. An unselfish interest has been shown by the school people in the many problems involved in the study.

"County library service," by Harriet Long should be read by everyone interested in extension work of any kind. It tells what steps to take to establish a county library; discusses campaigns, legislation, administration and tells how the county library may co-operate with existing agencies to increase its usefulness to the community. The Organization and Extension Division of the Indiana Library and Historical Department has several copies to loan. All libraries except the smallest ones will want a copy on their shelves.

"Reasonable budgets for public libraries and their units of expense," by O. R. Howard Thomson, is worth while reading for both librarians and trustees.

The Commission on the Library and Adult Education issues a bulletin "Adult Education and the Library" as a means of keeping the profession informed.

Reading courses prepared from time to time by specialists on different subjects are serving a good purpose. The lists are short and the books can be more easily be purchased.

The Eunice Rockwood Oberly Memorial Prize, awarded every two years for the best original bibliography in the field of agricultural or the natural sciences, was awarded to Max Meisel of New York for the first volume of his extensive Bibliography on American Natural History.

Sociology and Social Problems, by Howard W. Odum, head of the department of sociology at the University of North Carolina, a department which has been called "one of the most progressive and enthusiastic departments of the country" is number eight in the series "Reading with a Purpose" being published by the American Library Association.

An attractive poster has just been issued by A. L. A. designed to help libraries arouse an interest to help purposeful reading. Prices range from 25 cents a single copy to 10 cents each in lots of fifty. Write A. L. A. Headquarters, 86 E. Randolph St., Chicago.

The conception of education as a lifelong process, to which the library and the school have each a separate and distinct contribution to make, is significantly stated in the working program of the Educational Press Association presented at Cincinnati, February 23, 1925.

"Education is a lifelong obligation of the individual. Every child should be made to recognize that society gives him school opportunities that he may continue his education for himself. The development of professional library service in both school and community is a means to this end. A dollar per year per pupil is suggested as a minimum for the school library and a like amount per capita for the community library. By oft repeated emphasis editors can encourage teachers to continue their own education through systematic reading, to keep before pupils the ideal of self-education and to take their part in encouraging the community to provide adequate library service."

The platform of which the above statement is a single plank begins with the following statement of its general purpose:

"The interpretation of the objectives, programs, procedures and opportunities of the expanding educational program of America challenges the educational journals of the nation to a clearer definition of their purposes and more careful co-ordination of effort. Only thus can education receive that militant championship needed to offset reactionary tendencies and to elevate moral, intellectual and spiritual concerns above the material aspects of our life."

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

More and more teachers and librarians must realize that they are working on the same job, the education of a community. The teacher does not "help the library" by using her influence with her pupils to get and read books; she is helping the child to acquire what is essential in his education, namely ease and pleasure in reading. The librarian does not help the teacher primarily when she supplies her and her pupils with additional material in school subjects, but merely does her part in educating the child.

Cleveland Board of Education.

TWO NEW EDUCATIONAL JOURNALS

"Progressive Education," a new quarterly appearing for the first time in April, published by the Progressive Education Association of Washington, D. C. Not a pedagogical journal, but an attempt is made to treat education as one of the natural interests of a cultivated person's life.

"The Elementary English Review," published monthly from September to June in the interests of teachers of English in elementary schools. Will appeal to boys and girls themselves. In each issue there will be a few pages, exclusively for children, containing letters, stories and poems.

"Planning the school library" is an illustrated four-page leaflet prepared by a special committee of which Lucile Fargo of Spokane is chairman. It is designed to answer the specific, practical needs of architects and school officials who are planning a school library. It supplements the A. L. A. publicity leaflet, "The school library."

Graded Book List. Dr. Carleton W. Washburn of Winnetka, Ill., is having the co-operation of about thirty public schools and librarians in the collection of data in which his graded list of books is to be prepared. Each child who reports on a book he has read is given the Stanford Silent Reading Test. Children are asked to report on all books read. When ballots on one book have been received from fifty children the book will be checked against certain approved lists. If found in these lists, or if it is not on the lists but is approved by a special committee, the book will be graded according to the children's recorded judgments. About 30,000 copies of the Stanford Silent Reading Tests are being used and a considerably larger number of ballots.

In preparation.

The High School Library Browsing corner is the subject of an address given at the Seattle conference by Eleanor M. Witmer, Supervisor of Public School Libraries, Denver, Colorado. It is printed in the September 15th number of Library Journal and should be read by all school librarians and English teachers.

A very valuable aid in work with the English Department is Hilson-Wheeling, illustrative material for high school literature.

Some useful picture studies may be secured by sending to Miss Emma M. Roberts, supervisor of drawing, Minneapolis, Minn. These are sold at the rate of four for twenty-five cents. A life sketch of the artist with a study of about ten of his pictures comprise a pamphlet.

National Standards for Elementary School Libraries. A joint committee of the N. E. A. and the A. L. A. with C. C. Certain as chairman have prepared a pamphlet on Elementary School Library Standards. This may be procured from the American Library Association at a nominal price.

"Efficiency of a practically flawless kind may be reached naturally in the struggle for bread. But there is something beyond—a higher point, a subtle and unmistakable touch of love and pride beyond mere skill; almost an inspiration which gives to all work that finish which is almost art—which is art."—Joseph Conrad.

NEWS OF SCHOOL LIBRARY SERVICE

News for this column is urged from school libraries and public libraries doing school work. Your good work will be an inspiration to others.

Bloomington. Collections of books are being placed in each grade building. Miss Ashby believes that much can be done in directing and stimulating the reading of better books through the teachers supervised by the librarian.

Bluffton. A co-operative plan is in operation between the schools and the library which promises excellent service to the children of school age. The salary of a high school librarian with college education and some library training is divided among the two institutions. The school board pays for the public library cards for tuition pupils. Approximately four hundred dollars worth of books have been ordered for the high school. Plans are made for definite instruction in the use of books for all students.

Goshen. The high school library is now administered by a trained librarian. New books have been ordered and regular instruction in the use of books and libraries will be a part of the program.

Clinton. Reports from Phoebe Conley, the librarian of the high school library, show that teachers and students are more interested than ever in the library. Since the room is far too small to accommodate more than a handful of students at a time, the English teachers are giving much of the instruction in the use of books which would otherwise be given by the librarian.

Laporte. Library service in the schools is now well organized. The three schools whose distance from the library would defer frequent visits of children to the public library are supplied with traveling libraries. The junior and the senior high schools have their own collections which are supplemented by books from the public library.

Vevay-Switzerland County. The past year forty schools have had book collections, four of the county schools were served through their respective stations and four schools were not served at all. Eleven new school stations were organized during the year.

Wells County. Principals in the several schools of the county whose libraries were organized last year continue their interest by insisting upon additions being made to the library to meet the standards.

Ignorance is death. By ignorance I mean, not ignorance of books, but ignorance of environment—irresponsiveness. Books are not an end in themselves; education may lead to damnation as well as to salvation; books and education are only means to an end, an end that may be missed, but that end is the greatest of all man's goals. The end of education is the loosing of man's soul into the region of wonder, the filling of his darkness with the light of understanding, the nurturing of his spirit on the milk of Paradise. The end of education is to make the dead soul a living soul, and the living a Personality that still hungers and still thirsts for the ultimate satisfactions of divinity.—Harold Begbie.

"It would be well for the general student to recognize at the outset that no solid advance, even in generally learning, can be made by the cleverest man without some surrender of social joys, and without the endurance of much painful labour. The labour will in time cease to be painful, and will assuredly produce a more than adequate reward; but the toil of him who goes forth with harrow, plough, and seed-basket, in order that he may eventually reap a material harvest, is not more unavoidable to the husbandman, than are the self-denial and the plodding which lead to the mental harvest of matured views, expanded emotions, and enlarged principles, to the student who would ponder over in the closet what may make him an intelligent actor in human affairs."—John Morley.

NOTES FOR LIBRARIANS

THE CHILDREN'S CATALOG

The third edition of the children's catalog, compiled by Minnie E. Sears, includes 4,100 titles. Alice L. Hazeltine, Alice M. Jordon, Effie L. Powers, Mary E. S. Root, Nina Brotherton and Mary Eastman were chief advisers in book selection. This edition includes six hundred more titles than the last edition—issued eight years ago. The small edition contains twelve hundred titles. This comprises mainly those books that would form the basis of a good general collection of children's books.

CHILDREN'S BOOK WEEK

November 8-14, 1925

Children's Book Week was originated in 1919 by the American Booksellers' Association, the American Library Association, the Boy Scouts of America and associated publishers. It has become, in five years, a national annual campaign which thousands of communities use to stimulate interest in boys' and girls' books. The influence of this special work is felt in a growing consciousness of the importance of directing children's reading.

The seventh annual Children's Book Week will be celebrated November 8-14, 1925. Are you making plans for it? Good material, including posters, circulars and booklists may be gotten from National Association of Book Sellers, 334 Fifth Ave., New York. The Bookshelf for Boys and Girls, 1925-26, from R. R. Bowker Co., 62 West 45th St., is very valuable. Special work should be done, and let's make this celebration the very best one yet! Some special publicity material from the National Association of Book Publishers is listed below:

Poster, designed by Jon Brubaker. "After all, there is nothing like A Good Book." Printed in five colors. Free.

Card miniature of poster in color, $1.00 per 100. Motion picture slide with imprint, 50c.

Poster, designed by Jessie Wilcox Smith. "More books in the Home." Printed in four colors. Free.

Card miniature of Smith poster in color, 75c per 100.

Club program suggestions for Book Week, circular compiled by General Federation of Women's Clubs, Literature Division. Free.

Book Projects, circular compiled for schools by National Congress of Parent and Teachers, Committee on Children's Reading. Free.

Suggestions for communities, circular giving suggestions for organizing a successful Book Week celebration. Free.

Magazine articles on Children's Reading, a list of recent articles. Free.

Book Films, a selection made by the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures. Free.

"Literary Indiana," by R. Katharine Besson, with drawings by Frederick Polley, is an attractive pamphlet recently published by Bobbs-Merrill Co. This pamphlet contains short sketches of many of Indiana's famous sons and daughters, with interesting illustrations. Copies were given all members who attended the National Education Association, as greetings. Bobbs-Merrill Company have been kind enough to make a special offer of remaining copies to libraries for twenty-five cents. Write direct to them for copies.

"Poetry makes immortal all that is best and most beautiful in the world; it arrests the vanishing apparitions which haunt the interlunations of life, and veiling them, or in language or in form, sends them forth among mankind, bearing sweet news of kindred joy to those with whom their sisters abide—abide, because there is no portal of expression from the caverns of the spirit which they inhabit into the universe of things. Poetry redeems from decay the visitations of the divinity in man."—Percy Bysshe Shelley, "A defence of Poetry."

NEWS OF LIBRARIES

Anderson. The Indiana room is one of the outstanding features of the public library. There is a separate catalog of the books shelved there. The books are not for circulation.

Bloomington. Indiana University. Work will begin soon on an addition to the University library. The new structure will be three stories high with outside dimensions 53 x 100. Faced brick with Bedford stone trim will be the material used and the cost will be $325,000.

Bluffton. A co-operative plan between the public library and the school makes possible much better library service for the children of school age. The school board pays for the library cards of non-resident pupils and half the salary of a trained librarian for the high school library.

Columbus-Bartholomew County. A contest among the high school and the grade pupils decided the selection of the twenty prize posters used at the library booth at the county fair.

Crawfordsville. Wabash College. The library of the late Thomas R. Marshall has been placed in the Marshall room of Senator Hall at Wabash College.

Fort Wayne-Allen County. A new branch of the Allen County library has recently been opened at New Haven. Urgent need of library branch expansion is the reason for an increase of the tax levy of one-half cent. A three-cent levy if continued in the county.

Ladoga. Mrs. Opal Foxworthy, assistant librarian, had an interesting library exhibit at the Montgomery county fair.

Laporte. According to a letter from Miss Case the juvenile patrons of the library are now receiving the attention which their patronage has earned for them. A large suitably furnished room now takes the place of the ten by ten room containing only one table and ten chairs for the thirty or more children visiting the library after school.

Logansport. Vacation reading is no longer an experiment. Sixty-one children received diplomas in the summer reading contest this year.

Liberty. October 8, Liberty is to celebrate the tenth birthday of their public library. In the afternoon they will keep "open house" and in the evening a little play "Friends in Bookland" and a short musical program will be given.

Marion. Members of the staff of the public library visited the libraries at Muncie and Anderson in August to study the systems.

Michigan City. A special reference department for newspaper readers will soon be opened in the public library.

Muncie. Local factories have asked the co-operation of the library in outlining specific courses of study for employees.

A series of interesting stories by the librarian on the preparation of books for the shelves has occurred in the Muncie Press from time to time.

Muncie. Indiana State Normal School. From a collection of 6,000 volumes four years ago, the library has grown until it now boasts 16,000 volumes. Within the last year books valued at $7,000 have been added.

Richmond. The library was closed two weeks in August to permit the staff to take their vacation and for repairs to be made in the library.
